women of the Kilifi Methodist Church became concerned at the growing number of children begging on the streets of Kilifi - a phenomenon not previously known in this small Kenyan town on the coast of East Africa. They realised that more and more of the kids were losing their parents due to AIDS, and although most were taken in by other The Orphans of the Creek members, the poverty level here meant that the families just could not feed the extra mouths.
